Bush: U.S. Won't Be Deterred

Vows to stay in Iraq despite new threat from al Qaeda

CRAWFORD, TEXAS | President Bush, facing a grim and growing death toll in Iraq, said Thursday that threats of more violence by al Qaeda's second-in-command would not intimidate the United States into retreat.

At the same time, the U.S. military said in Iraq that four more service members had been killed in action but also insisted American troops were making progress against insurgents.

An AP-Ipsos poll showed public support of Bush's handling of the war had dropped to 38 percent, the lowest so far.

Al-Zawahri

"We will stay the course, we will complete the job in Iraq," Bush said in Texas as a videotape by Ayman al-Zawahri, al Qaeda's No. 2, was broadcast around the world.

In the tape, Al-Zawahri threatened more destruction in London after subway and bus bombings and said that the U.S. goal in Iraq was merely "aggression against Muslims." He threatened: "If you don't leave today, certainly you will leave tomorrow, but after tens of thousands of dead and double the number of disabled and wounded."

Bush said that kind of talk only showed why the United States must stay the course. If terrorists think they can prevail in the Middle East, he said, "they must not have understood the nature of our country. ... As I have told the American people, people like Zawahri have an ideology that is dark, dim, backwards." (AP)

WEDDINGS

So Many Choices: Gown, Cake, Groom

A London woman's wedding plans were completely overhauled when she got a wedding planner — and decided to marry him instead. Jessie Hunt had second thoughts about her choice of husband when she and fiancé Matthew

Jackson began arguing about their wedding, the Sun reported. "I wanted a big full-on wedding, but he wanted a very small one. The more Matthew and I tried to sort things out, the more we drifted apart," she said. It was easier to sort things out with wedding planner Michael Phillips, however, and, a few weeks after her first wedding was canceled, they got engaged. (EXPRESS)

INSULTS

Automated Tell-Off Machine Card

A bank apologized to customer Chris Lancaster, of Tiptree, England, after his debit card arrived with the name "C Lancaster D*ck Head," the Press Association reported. Lancaster said he didn't spot the insult until he used the card a few days after receiving it in the mail. Lancaster admitted he isn't a perfect customer, having overdrawn his account multiple times, but said, "I've done nothing to deserve this." The bank told Lancaster he must have upset an employee who changed the name, and they are investigating. (EXPRESS)

STUNTS

Big Air Band

It's the type of stunt to make tuba players sweat: A motorcyclist leaped over the Guard of His Majesty, The King of Norway Band and Drill Team in Edinburgh on Wednesday, in preparation for the Edinburgh Military Tattoo. ## MERGERS

But One Boy Will Be Laid Off

A merger in Salem, Mass., on Wednesday settled a dispute between two boys hawking lemonade and a sausage vendor. Last weekend, the vendor reported the boys to police, saying its business, which also sells lemonade, was affected by the competition. Police then shut down the boys' stand because they didn't have a $2,200 license. The boys will now sell the drink as Kefalas' subcontractors. (AP)

Discovery Cleared for Return Flight

Shuttle managers say no further repairs needed

HOUSTON | After much soul-searching and analysis, NASA cleared Discovery to return to Earth next week, concluding Thursday that there was no need to send the astronauts out on another spacewalk to repair a torn thermal blanket near a cockpit window.

Mission managers could not guarantee that a piece of the blanket won't rip off during re-entry and slam into the spacecraft, but they said the chance of that happening was remote and that it would be riskier to try to fix the problem.

"The lowest risk, the best choice and the unanimous decision of the engineers in the management team is that we should re-enter as is," deputy shuttle program manager Wayne Hale said in a news conference.

NASA had been considering sending the astronauts out to snip away part of the blanket for fear a 13-inch section weighing just under an ounce could tear away during the latter stages of descent and strike the shuttle, perhaps causing grave danger.

Had the astronauts been asked to repair the blanket, it would have been the fourth spacewalk of the 13-day mission.

Discovery is scheduled to undock from the international space station on Saturday and land back at Cape Canaveral, Fla., before dawn on Monday. MARCIA DUNN (AP)

Ex-Lobbyists Charged With Conspiracy

Two accused of trying to obtain secret U.S. defense information

WASHINGTON | Two former employees of a pro-Israel lobbying organization were charged Thursday with conspiring to obtain and disclose classified U.S. defense information for five years.

A five-count indictment unsealed in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va., named Steven Rosen, formerly the director of foreign policy issues for the American Israel Public Affairs Committee, and Keith Weissman, the organization's former senior Iran analyst.

The charges follow the indictment in June of Pentagon analyst Lawrence A. Franklin, who is accused of leaking classified military information to an Israeli official and the AIPAC employees.

The lengthy FBI investigation that led to Thursday's charges has been closely followed in Washington, where AIPAC is an influential interest group.

The government is not accusing Franklin, Rosen and Weissman of espionage, although the FBI has questioned at least one Israeli official and also wants to talk to Naor Gilon, who recently returned to Israel after a stint as a senior diplomat in the Israeli embassy in Washington.

Israeli Embassy spokesman David Siegel said his country's diplomats have done nothing wrong. He acknowledged that U.S. officials have asked about questioning Gilon. "We've expressed our willingness to cooperate," he said. MARK SHERMAN (AP)

New York Sued for Subway Searches

Plaintiffs say random inspections violate rights

NEW YORK | Five city subway riders and a civil liberties group sued the city Thursday to stop random police inspections of bags in subways, calling the searches ineffective, unconstitutional and a publicity stunt that does not enhance safety.

"It's a needle-in-the-haystack approach to law enforcement," said Donna Lieberman, executive director of the New York Civil Liberties Union, which filed the lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Manhattan.

She and other members of the group who spoke at a news conference to announce the lawsuit said they want police to stop terrorists and improve safety, but not with useless measures designed to give subway riders a false sense of security.

Christopher Dunn, the New York Civil Liberties Union's associate legal director, said the policy announced July 21 was akin to a random search of people's bags and packages on public streets and a violation of a fundamental civil right.

But Gail Donoghue, a city lawyer, said the subway searches meet all legal requirements and preserve "the important balance between protecting our city and preserving individual rights."

She added, "We believe the NYCLU is shortsighted in failing to recognize this. We are confident our position will prevail in court."

Among five plaintiffs was Brendan MacWade, 32, who escaped the World Trade Center towers after they were struck by hijacked planes on Sept. 11, 2001. "I want to catch terrorists as much as any politicians or officials but this policy does not work," he said.

Close Watch on London Commute

Police presence meant to calm fears; officials charge sisters in probe

LONDON | In a show of force to calm an edgy London, officers armed with submachine guns patrolled uncrowded subway stations and police helicopters hovered over city streets as one of the busiest Underground lines reopened Thursday — four weeks to the day after suicide bombers killed 52 people.

Undercover officers mixed with a lighter-than-usual load of subway commuters — many Londoners no doubt mindful that terrorists had attempted similar attacks exactly two weeks after the deadly July 7 transit bombings.

ON GUARD: An officer patrols a subway station in central London on Thursday.

British police investigating the botched London subway attack of July 21 said Thursday they had charged two sisters for failing to disclose information under anti-terrorism laws.

The Washington Post

There are signs of fraying in London's famously diverse social fabric as well. London police have recorded a 600 percent increase in crimes motivated by religious hatred since the suicide bombings.

"I'm a little bit anxious, I suppose," said Robert Allen, 20, as he waited to board a subway at King's Cross station. "I can't help feeling wary of people who get on the train, and watching what they're doing."

Israeli Man Kills 4 in Bus Attack

13 others wounded before crowd turns on gunman, killing him

SHFARAM, ISRAEL | A 19-year-old Israeli soldier opened fire inside a bus Thursday, killing four Israeli Arabs in the deadliest attack on Arabs in Israel by a Jewish extremist since 1990. An angry crowd then killed the gunman.

Thirteen people, including bus passengers and two policemen, were wounded in the shooting, which appeared linked to tensions over the upcoming Israeli pullout from the Gaza Strip and parts of the West Bank.

After the attack, the bruised and bloodied body of the gunman lay on the floor of the bus surrounded by stones — raising the possibility he had been stoned to death.

The military identified the dead soldier as Pvt. Eden Natan-Zada, a resident of the Jewish settlement of Tapuah in the West Bank. Natan-Zada's father, Yitzhak, told The Associated Press his son ran away from his army unit several weeks ago after being told he would have to participate in the Gaza pullout.

Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon denounced the shooting as "a despicable act by a bloodthirsty terrorist." Settler leaders also condemned the attack. (AP)

4 U.S. Soldiers Killed in Iraq Violence

Military cites some progress in disrupting insurgent activities

BAGHDAD, IRAQ | The U.S. military defended its operations in western Iraq, insisting it is reducing insurgent attacks despite the deaths of 14 Marines in a huge bombing. Four more U.S. service members were killed in action, the military said Thursday.

U.S. military spokesman Brig. Gen. Donald Alston said American military operations in Anbar province, which includes the area where the Marines died, have succeeded in disrupting insurgent activities.

A soldier inspects the site of the bombing that killed 14 Marines Wednesday.

"We still have deaths. We still have suicide car bombs," he said. "But the numbers we see indicate (the insurgents) can't generate the same tempo, and I think that's because we've had some degree of effect in interdicting these forces."

Alston cited figures showing there were 13 car bombs in Iraq last week — the lowest weekly number since April. "There's a clear indication to me that the tempo has decreased."

Alston warned that militants will likely rally their forces in a concerted effort to derail the country's political progress.

A roadside bomb late Wednesday killed three U.S. soldiers in Baghdad, the U.S. command said. A Marine was killed Wednesday by small arms fire in Ramadi, the command added. TINI TRAN (AP)

JUBA, SUDAN | The body of John Garang was flown from town to town in southern Sudan on Thursday for his people to pay last respects to their popular leader before his burial.

But his final resting place, Juba, is still recovering from a rampage against Muslim Arabs by ethnic Africans convinced Garang was murdered.

A charred copy of the Koran lay on an unpaved road in Juba Thursday, a sign of how southerners took out their anger on symbols of the mostly Muslim Arab north.

More than 130 people were killed this week in riots in Khartoum, the capital, and the southern cities of Juba and Malakal, according to the Sudanese Red Crescent. (AP)

BEIJING | North Korea insisted Thursday during six-nation disarmament talks that it retain the right to "peaceful nuclear activities" — a demand the United States opposes because of suspicions the North could use those programs to make weapons.

Delegates vowed to press ahead with the talks, but the Chinese hosts for the first time raised the prospect they could end without an agreement. The talks will continue Friday.

North Korean Vice Foreign Minister Kim Kye Gwan said after 10 days of talks that delegates were "at a stalemate" in work on a statement of principles to guide negotiations aimed at persuading Pyongyang to give up its nuclear programs. (AP)

HIROSHIMA, JAPAN | Ahead of the 60th anniversary of the world's first atomic bomb attack, thousands of peace activists marched through downtown Hiroshima on Thursday, calling for a global ban on nuclear weapons.

At that time on Aug. 6, 1945, the Enola Gay dropped an atomic bomb that exploded over Hiroshima, killing at least 140,000 people. Three days later, Bock's Car dropped a bomb on Nagasaki, killing another 80,000.

Japan surrendered to the United States, bringing World War II to a close, on Aug. 15.

On Thursday about 8,000 people, including several hundred activists from 29 countries, attended the conference, the biggest pre-anniversary event. Roughly 2,000 activists joined in the march beforehand.

General: NATO to Take Over Afghan Security in 2006

KABUL, AFGHANISTAN | A NATO-led international force is set to expand and will be ready to assume responsibility for security across all of Afghanistan by the end of next year, freeing up many of the 17,600 American troops battling militants here, a NATO general said Thursday.

The announcement follows a surge in fighting between U.S.-led forces and Taliban rebels ahead of elections next month.

Washington has long urged NATO to move forward with a plan to expand its 10,000-strong force into Afghanistan's volatile south and east.

"We are in a position that we can take over the responsibility for all of Afghanistan in the course of the next year," said Gen. Gerhard Back, who oversees the international force from his base in the Netherlands. (AP)

Stocks Slide on Sales, Oil Prices

Markets pushed lower by modest retail sales, higher energy costs

NEW YORK | Stocks tumbled on disappointing retail sales and a rise in oil prices Thursday as investors, worried about oil's impact on consumer spending, took profits from the market's July rally.

Many of the U.S. retailers reported only modest sales gains as hot weather stifled demand for fall fashions and as many consumers spent their money at auto dealers instead of malls. But investors nonetheless were wondering whether retailers' results were a sign that consumers might finally be feeling the pinch from high gasoline and energy prices.

Those concerns were exacerbated by another rise in crude oil futures, which once again neared all-time highs. A barrel of light crude settled at $61.38, up 52 cents on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

However, with stocks still near four-year highs, financial analysts said the selloff was unlikely to be a signal of the start of a major downward trend.

"I think you're seeing some movement on the retail sales and oil, but I don't think it's meaningful," said Kurt Wolfgruber, chief investment officer at Oppenheimer Funds. "I still think this market will grudgingly go up." MICHAEL J. MARTINEZ (AP)

Davis to Kill Plan For Reagan Blvd.

Va. Congressman says he's ready to thwart 16th Street renaming

WASHINGTON | A congressional proposal to rename a major street in the nation's capital in honor of the late President Ronald Reagan looks like it will stall in committee.

Rep. Henry Bonilla, R-Texas, introduced a bill July 28, "to redesignate the street in the District of Columbia known as 16th Street Northwest as 'Ronald Reagan Boulevard.'"

But Rep. Tom Davis, R-Va., the chairman of the committee that oversees D.C. affairs, promised Thursday to kill the measure.

"I think the proposal is ridiculous," Davis told WTOP radio. "We'll put it in the appropriate file."

Davis was unequivocal in his opposition to the Bonilla proposal, saying that he would also object to the measure being attached to another bill.

Davis

"We've named the Ronald Reagan airport, we have the Ronald Reagan building downtown, but I think if Mr. Bonilla wants to name anything else, he ought to look to his own district in San Antonio," Davis said.

In a statement Thursday, D.C. Mayor Anthony A. Williams said Bonilla should instead find "suitable sites" in Texas, if he feels that more streets should be named after the late president.

"It's been a long time since I've heard of a plan that made so little sense," Williams said in his statement.

Renaming 16th Street would undo the work of Pierre L'Enfant who "created a design that has inspired millions of people from around the world," said Williams, noting that boulevards generally have medians, which 16th Street lacks.

The project would be costly to the city, running at least $1 million for such changes as signs and addresses, Williams said.

Efforts to reach Bonilla's office for comment were not immediately unsuccessful. SOFIA MANNOS (AP)

Metropolitan Police officers investigate the Thursday shooting on Madison Street NE near Riggs Road, which left one person dead and three wounded.

Masked Gunman Kills 1, Wounds 3 in NE Attack

WASHINGTON | One man was killed and three others wounded in a morning attack Thursday in a Northeast Washington neighborhood of manicured lawns.

A masked gunman dressed in black opened fire with an AK-47-type weapon on a panel truck carrying three people in the cab and two in the bed, following "some type of altercation," said Cmdr. Hilton Burton of the Metropolitan Police Department's Fourth District. Twelve to 15 rounds were pumped into a vehicle on Madison Street NE near Riggs Road. No motive for the attack was immediately known.

As the truck driver sped away to find help, the dead man rolled out of the vehicle onto the pavement a block from the scene, where he remained as authorities canvassed the area searching for evidence, Burton said.

The three injured men were being treated at area hospitals, and two were in critical condition, police said. The fifth man who was not hurt was being questioned as a witness by authorities.

The assailant fled in a gray or silver vehicle and remained at large, Burton said.

The incident occurred in a normally quiet urban neighborhood of two-story brick homes. Lasalle Elementary School is adjacent to the crime scene. SOFIA MANNOS (AP)

DIGGING DOWN: University of Virginia officials said Thursday that archaeologists exploring a campus site discovered 18 grave shafts that could be part of a community burial ground for free black people. In 1993, archeologists exploring the site, near Cabell Hall, found the graves of four adults and eight children. Two more graves were found this past May. (AP)

Man Mistakenly Imprisoned Gets $1M Settlement

WASHINGTON | The city's legal system mistakenly put Joseph Heard behind bars for almost two years, but on Wednesday, it made the formerly homeless Heard a wealthy man.

U.S. District Judge Colleen Kollar-Kotelly approved a settlement Thursday granting Heard $1.1 million — plus legal fees — from the District of Columbia government.

Heard's total settlement could reach $1.55 million once the still-undisclosed sum from the medical care contractor that treated him in jail is included, his attorney John Moustakas said.

Heard — who is described as deaf, mute and mentally impaired — was jailed in 1999 on a trespassing charge from a year earlier, although a D.C. Superior Court judge had freed him, declaring him mentally unfit to stand trial.

Prison officials then lost track of his records and he was not released until 670 days after his arrest, when officials were processing a transfer of prisoners to a federal facility.

Marshall Plan

Lemar has a Giant task taking over for Pierce

REDSKINS | Joe Gibbs was just trying to make conversation when he walked up to Lemar Marshall at the start of a practice and said, "How you doing in there?"

Apparently, Marshall is not into casual talk on the football field. He looked at Gibbs as if the coach had just announced a federal investigation.

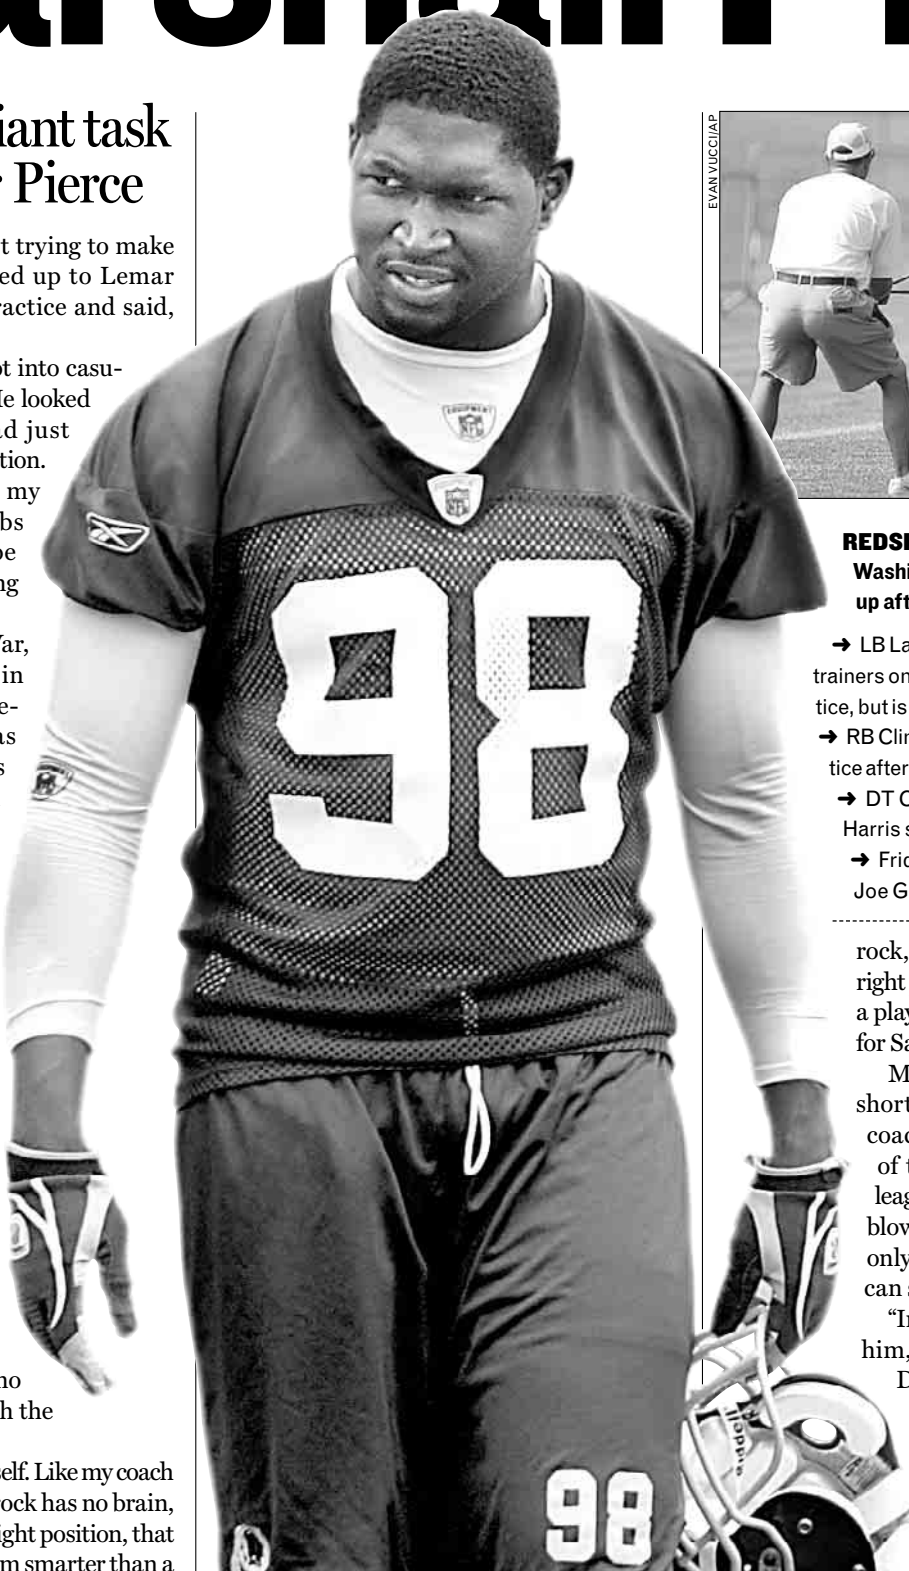

"I walk away going, 'Oh, my gosh.' He's so serious," Gibbs said. "Most players would be joking with you. He was taking everything to heart."

No, Lemar is not like LaVar, even though Marshall filled in when three-time Pro Bowl linebacker LaVar Arrington was injured last year. Whereas Arrington is flamboyant and temperamental, Marshall could be the no-nonsense neighbor down the block with the three kids.

"We kid him — we call him 'Normal Guy.' He's just a guy," strong side linebacker Marcus Washington said. "But he doesn't play like that."

Marshall was all business last year while starting 14 games on the weak side for a defense that ranked No. 3 in the league. This year, his task is even more daunting: He is the top candidate to replace the much-respected brain of the defense, middle linebacker Antonio Pierce, who left as a free agent to sign with the New York Giants.

"I've just got to believe in myself. Like my coach Nick Saban said in college, 'A rock has no brain, but if you put that rock in the right position, that rock can make a play.' I know I'm smarter than a

REDSKINS NOTES

Washington is a little bit beaten up after a week at training camp:

- LB LaVar Arrington is working with trainers on an adjacent field from practice, but is two weeks from real action.
- RB Clinton Portis returned to practice after sitting out Wednesday night.
- DT Cornelius Griffin and CD Walt Harris sat out a third straight day.
- Friday is Fan Appreciation Day; Joe Gibbs will speak at 8:15 a.m.

rock, so if you put yourself in the right position, you're going to make a play," said Marshall, who played for Saban at Michigan State.

Marshall is selling himself short. Pierce was considered by coaches and teammates as one of the smartest players in the league. His departure was a huge blow to morale, a loss tempered only by the feeling that Marshall can seamlessly fill the void.

"In the games, it comes easy for him," defensive lineman Phillip Daniels said. "Things have been going pretty smooth with him in the middle. I don't think we're going to lose a beat with Antonio gone."

JOSEPH WHITE (AP)

ROBERT A. REEDER/TWP

STUNTS | Falling Short John Daly gave it his all, but couldn't quite reach the other side of Niagara Falls. The five-time PGA Tour winner tried 20 times Wednesday night to drive a golf ball across the falls from Canada into the United States, his full-body swings growing more frenetic as ball after ball sailed into the white mist churned up from the gorge below. "I can't hit any better than this," he said after his 15th shot at a yellow flag across the river. He came closest on the second ball, which bounced off the wall just short of the target. "I killed that," he said. (AP)

Blake Bounces Back

With injuries now in the past, tennis star finds his form in D.C.

TENNIS | Only two years ago, James Blake was one of the true rising stars of American tennis.

He finished 2003 ranked in the Top 40 for the second year in a row, compiling a 24-14 record on hard courts. That included a second consecutive trip to the third round of the U.S. Open, where he lost to Roger Federer. It also included a quarter-final loss in the Legg Mason Tennis Classic to Andre Agassi, a year after Blake won the tournament.

But in 2004, Blake fell from

ROAD TO WELLVILLE: What Blake's overcome

- Suffered a broken vertebrae in his neck in May 2004, causing him to miss two months of action
- Last summer, he contracted Zoster, affecting his hearing and vision, and paralyzing half his face prominence almost as quickly as he had risen. He fractured two vertebrae during a practice session in May, then contracted Zoster, a disease which affects hearing and sight and which caused paralysis on one side of Blake's face. As a result, Blake was able to play only three tournaments in the final six months of the year, including here in Washington where he lost in the first round.

But now, as Blake himself said,

KEVIN WOLF/AP

"the tide is turning."

He has made it to the third round of this year's Legg Mason tournament, beating No. 4-seed Radek Stepanek along the way. Perhaps more importantly, though, Blake's confidence is back.

"I feel like I'm playing just about as well as when I was playing 20-something in the world," he said. "I'm a more mature player, a more in-control player."

DOPING | BY MATT SWENSON

No Hall Pass For Palmeiro

RAFAEL PALMEIRO should forget about the Hall of Fame. The Hall of Shame seems more appropriate.

Instead of a legend, he's a liar. There's little doubt about it anymore: The Orioles slugger knowingly took steroids. Period.

The positive test, disclosed on Monday, reflects that he injected himself with stanozolol, a powerful steroid that cannot be ingested in a supplement. There goes his argument that somehow the drug entered his system accidentally.

What do the numbers mean if Palmeiro was juiced up the whole time?

Even Palmeiro said he would have to be "stupid" to have doped up the same year he went in front of Congress and said, "I have never used steroids. Period."

Well, if he was stupid enough to use drugs this year, how can we not think he did the same during the remarkable stretch when he hit at least 38 home runs nine consecutive years?

Five hundred home runs and 3,000 hits are impressive numbers to be sure. But what do they mean if Palmeiro was juiced up the whole time?

Seven times seven can equal 98 with a properly juiced calculator.

We'll never know how the first baseman's numbers would have turned out had he not used steroids, which is why some say they will hold their nose and still vote him in to the Hall of Fame based on those tainted numbers.

But being in the Hall of Fame is a privilege, not a right. The punishment – losing his status among baseball's greats – fits the crime.

Palmeiro will still always be remembered. Now it will be for the black eye he gave a game he played for 20 years.

Washington Hopes To Catch the Fever

Mystics eye first win over rivals in third meeting of the season

MYSTICS | Not until the final buzzer sounded could the Mystics collectively breath a sigh of relief as they came away with a thrilling 65-63 victory over Charlotte Tuesday at the MCI Center.

The win marked the fourth time this season the Mystics (13-12) had beaten the Sting.

"It's very hard to beat people four times in a row," said Mystics coach Richie Adubato.

The Mystics should know, as they prepare for an opponent who they have yet to defeat this season.

On Sunday, the Indiana Fever will make their second visit to the MCI Center. In their two previous meetings, the Mystics have yet to beat the Fever, who trail first place Connecticut by four games in the Eastern Conference standings. Washington is in third place.

TONI L. SANDY/TWP

Temeka Johnson and the Mystics sit in third place of the Eastern Conference.

"We're playing at home and we need the win because our last five [games] will be on the road," said forward Chasity Melvin, "so it really doesn't matter who's coming in. Obviously we would like to get Indiana back because we felt like we could have beaten them at their place." BRANDY L. SIMMS

GO WEST: The Philadelphia Flyers made salary-cap room for Peter Forsberg by trading Jeremy Roenick to the Los Angeles Kings on Thursday. Los Angeles also receives a 2006 third-round draft pick the Flyers acquired from Nashville. Philadelphia gets future considerations from the Kings and space under the $39 million cap to clear the way for Forsberg. (AP)

O's Tab Mazzilli the Fall Guy

Recent swoon results in the firing of team's second-year manager

ORIOLES | A miserable week for Lee Mazzilli began with Rafael Palmeiro's suspension and ended with the manager's dismissal.

The Baltimore Orioles fired Mazzilli on Thursday in the middle of a massive slide, just three days after Palmeiro became the biggest major league star to be caught using steroids.

Sam Perlozzo was appointed interim manager for the rest of the season. The Orioles had lost eight straight and 14 of 15 heading into Thursday's game against the Los Angeles Angels.

The Orioles finished 78-84 in 2004, Mazzilli's first season, and this year appeared on course to end a run of seven straight losing seasons.

Under pressure to win all year, Lee Mazzilli didn't last the season with the Orioles.

Sosa's Homer Ends Baltimore's Skid

ORIOLES | Sammy Sosa picked up a listless Baltimore club still stunned by the sudden firing of manager Lee Mazzilli on Thursday, hitting a two-run homer as the Orioles beat the Los Angeles Angels 4-1 and snapped a season-worst eight-game losing streak.

Sam Perlozzo won his first game after being promoted from bench coach to interim manager.

Rodrigo Lopez (10-6) allowed a run and two hits while striking out five and walking two. B.J. Ryan struck out Juan Rivera to end the bases-loaded threat in the eighth, then finished for his 23rd save. (AP)

PALMEIRO CEREMONY OFF

→ The Baltimore Orioles canceled a pre-game ceremony scheduled for Aug. 14 to honor Rafael Palmeiro's 3,000th hit, at the slugger's request, the team said Thursday. This comes three days after he failed a steroid test. (AP)

Baltimore got off to a solid start and on April 23 gained sole possession of first place.

The Orioles stayed on top through June 23. Baltimore was in second place, just one game back, on July 15 — the day Palmeiro got his 3,000th hit and became the fourth player in baseball history to reach 3,000 hits and 500 homers.

But Baltimore then went on the skid that cost Mazzilli his job. From July 16 through Wednesday, the Orioles lost 16 of 18 — including their last eight in a row — to fall into fourth place. JOE RESNICK (AP)

Caron Butler stands tall against Kevin Garnett as a member of the Lakers.

Wizards Present Butler

WIZARDS | As a scout, Washington Wizards president of basketball operations Ernie Grunfeld first started keeping up with Caron Butler in high school. Since then, he's admired the 6-foot-7 guard-forward from afar, following his career through college and the NBA.

Atkins

Now Grunfeld hopes that familiar face will help his team get deeper into the playoffs.

The Wizards formally introduced Butler and veteran guard Chuckie Atkins — acquired in the trade for Kwame Brown — on Thursday at the MCI Center.

"The special ones, you keep a closer eye on," Grunfeld said. "He's very tough, very competitive, he's improved all the time."

Butler, who averaged a career-high 15.5 points and 5.8 rebounds with the Lakers last season, said he enjoyed the warm welcome from Grunfeld. "You want somebody who knows your game inside out, who knows what you like to do in certain situations," Butler said. "I'm excited about this opportunity and truly blessed. I'm in a great situation." # Gomez Takes a Star Turn

Unknown a year ago, All-Star is now a key part of D.C.'s offense

Even United's famous phenomenon recognized the true star of the show.

One year ago, Gomez was an unknown import. He played for middling teams in his native Buenos Aires before arriving quietly in Washington last August. Now the third-leading goal scorer in MLS (8) and the architect of United's championship-winning attack, Gomez, 31, has emerged as D.C.'s anchor.

He was the team's only representative at last weekend's All-Star Game. He scored twice in Wednesday's U.S. Open Cup triumph in Richmond, and will be the key to D.C.'s success in the regular season stretch run that begins Saturday night in Chicago.

"He's better than me," United Coach Peter Nowak said when asked to compare Gomez to other MLS playmakers.

"This kind of player you always welcome — the player who can make the right decision and that always plays with the sense to do something special."

Gomez's nose for goal and his subtle, sudden ability to disorient a defense with the perfect pass has helped United to a 19-9-9 record since his arrival and is reminiscent of the impact Marco Etcheverry had leading D.C. to three MLS titles in the 1990s.

Gomez was even issued Etcheverry's No. 10 before the start of this season.

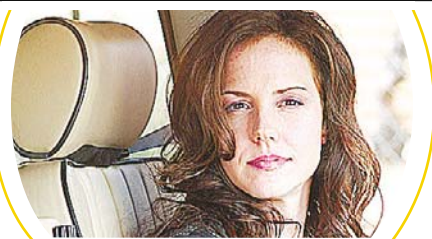

"They're both smart," D.C. veteran Jaime Moreno said. "It's always fun to play with that understanding."

Said Gomez: "I'm happy to have the opportunity to come to MLS. I think that what I've brought to the team at my age is to sort of show the young players what I learned back in Argentina."

He has been making his point to the rest of the league as well.

Bill Murray searches for former loves in 'Broken Flowers'

FILM | In "Broken Flowers," writer-director Jim Jarmusch again makes clear that the journey, not the destination, is what matters to him. And in Bill Murray, he has found an ideal traveling companion.

This strange, dream-like road trip is a near-perfect match of droll director and droll star. Despite a quest that should be fraught with emotion — a man's visits to old lovers in search of a son he never knew he had — Murray registers scarcely any expression beyond the apathetic world-weariness fast becoming his trademark.

Balanced against more overt co-stars Sharon Stone, Jessica Lange, Tilda Swinton, Julie Delpy, Frances Conroy and Jeffrey Wright, Murray stands as a wondrous question mark just begging audiences to formulate their own answers about what lies beneath his cryptic demeanor.

Murray plays ladies' man Don Johnston, who knows his appeal is slipping with age and may not really care, putting up only token resistance when his current lover, Sherry (Delpy), leaves him.

Sherry's departure corresponds with the arrival of a pink letter from an unidentified ex-flame, telling Don he has a 19-year-old son who may be trying to contact his father.

His neighbor and buddy, family man Winston (Wright), convinces Don to take an elaborate trek to visit the women who could have given birth to his son in that time frame.

His most comforting encounter is the most passive, at a dead lover's grave. Don is at his least guarded here, the scene sweet, touching, almost revealing of the tender heart that may still beat in his chest.

But the vague dissatisfaction he feels with his visits spreads to the audience, making you long to know more of the backstory between Don and the women. That would undermine Jarmusch's aim to take people on a little ride and let them crane their necks at what flits by.

The 'Last Days' of Rock's Lost Boy

Gus Van Sant applies his vision to the sad death of a lonely star

FILM | Somewhere between the hypnotic minimalism of "Elephant" and the mind-numbing tedium of "Gerry" lies "Last Days," Gus Van Sant's pretentious yet oddly riveting look at the end of Kurt Cobain's life.

Though the writer-director has changed the character's name to Blake, it's clear that the late Nirvana lead singer and the mystery of the moments before his suicide are the inspiration.

With his scraggly blond hair, his hunched carriage and wardrobe of layered cardigans and flannels, Michael Pitt looks freakishly like Cobain. Sounds like him, too, when he finally sings.

First — and mostly — Blake meanders around his dilapidated mansion in the Pacific Northwest woods, mumbling to himself while dressed in a black nightie and carrying a shotgun. Sometimes he struggles to make cereal. For a long time he sits in a half-conscious heap on the floor, watching the video for the Boyz II Men love song "On Bended Knee," which seems even more maudlin and commercial with that viewer and that setting.

Bandmates and hangers-on come and go. They party at his place, then bail. Blake tries to avoid them all — though he does invite a Yellow Pages salesman into the living room for an absurd discussion about maximizing his ad space potential.

The film's many quiet spaces are intended to let us interpret the rest. Either that, or they'll have viewers checking their watches.

The approach is bold and visually striking, yet maddening. Some of the long tracking shots and ponderous silent stretches seem pointless. But nothing is ever haphazard with Van Sant. Stick with it, because it all leads to a powerful musical climax that's startling in its intensity, and for the rare insight it provides into this enigmatic figure.

Immortalized in the fantastic documentary "Standing in the Shadows of Motown," THE FUNK BROTHERS provided the backbone for hundreds of Motown hits, but were rarely credited for their work. Appearing tonight at the Birchmere, the remaining members of the Funk Brothers still create a formidable R&B force. PETER DENTON

DVD-Only Is Going Legit

Movies made for home viewing are a boon for studios

MARKETING | When the Walt Disney Co. released "The Return of Jafar" in 1994, the lowly direct-to-video category was associated with erotic thrillers, cheap comedies and material that had been targeted for theaters but wasn't good enough.

"Jafar," based on characters from the studio's hit "Aladdin," took in nearly $300 million worldwide. Along with "The Land Before Time II," it helped distance the category from its lackluster past.

The straight-to-DVD market is now a $3-billion-a-year business. Nearly every major studio has a division devoted to DVD "originals" or "premieres," as the studios call this cost-effective revenue stream.

"If they wanted to go theatrical with one of my films, they could," said president of DisneyToon Studios Sharon Morrill, who has sent out more than 25 made-for-video titles since "Jafar" took off.

With special effects more affordable and recognizable talent signing on, the line separating big-screen movies and original DVD fare is becoming increasingly blurred, said Kevin Kasha, senior vice president of acquisitions and programming for New Line Home Entertainment. Studios are not only producing titles, they're acquiring material at film festivals as well.

That can make all the difference for an off-center feature that previously would have been consigned to late-night cable.

"When I started out in the mid-1980s, a direct-to-video movie was an action-adventure-horror piece like 'Ice-Pick in the Eye, Part 12,'" said Kasha, who was hired last year to build the company's "exclusive to DVD" programming.

A-list producers such as Joel Silver and John Davis have climbed aboard, and some stars — Hilary Swank, Whoopi Goldberg and Matthew Broderick among them — are following suit.

Family fare dominates the direct-to-video market. Universal broke the $1-billion mark with its "The Land Before Time" series and has been successful with its "Balto" and "Beethoven" franchises. Disney's "The Lion King II: Simba's Pride" has taken in $464.5 million worldwide.

Miramax Films' Dimension division built a lucrative business around direct-to-video "genre" pictures such as "Hellraiser," "Dracula" and "The Crow." And Lions Gate is sending out 11 DVD horror premieres in September alone.

The direct-to-DVD niche may fill a void, industry analysts say, providing a home for material that once would have been made-for-TV movies. And the arena might be more hospitable to films such as "Cinderella Man," which misfired in the theaters.

ELAINE DUTKA (LOS ANGELES TIMES)

Only a critic who didn't exist could enjoy Rob Schneider's "The Animal."

Sony Pictures To Pay Up for Fake Reviews

LAWSUITS | Sony Pictures Entertainment must pay $1.5 million to settle a class-action lawsuit accusing the studio of citing a fake movie critic in ads for several films. Moviegoers who saw the films "Vertical Limit," "A Knight's Tale," "The Animal," "Hollow Man" or "The Patriot" during their original theater runs must file a claim to be eligible for a $5 per ticket reimbursement, lawyer Norman Blumenthal said Tuesday. ALEX VEIGA (AP)

Movies Now Playing

APRES VOUS (R, 110 minutes) In this French romantic comedy, Daniel Auteuil plays sweet, hapless Antoine, a headwaiter who can't say no to anyone. When he saves Louis (Jose Garcia) from hanging himself, he realizes he also has to solve the man's life problems. There isn't much to the movie — you can see where it's going from kilometers away, — but Auteuil is delightful. (DT)

BAD NEWS BEARS (PG-13, 111 minutes) Sure he's just reprising "Bad Santa," but Billy Bob Thornton's shtick never seems to get old. In this remake of the 1976 classic, he's a beer-swilling misanthrope who turns a ragtag, trash-talking gang of kiddie misfits into Little League contenders. The movie, directed by Richard Linklater, is a faithful remake of the Tatum O'Neal-Walter Matthau original, with only minor updates and changes. If truth be told, the movie is dull without Thornton. The young actors (including Sammi Kraft and Jeff Davies) aren't the most stellar thespians to swear their way through a film, and the plot is trite. But this movie's enjoyable for that hangdog coach whose slurry, sour-mouthed retorts knock 'em out of the park every time. (DT)

BATMAN BEGINS (PG-13, 140 minutes) Director Christopher Nolan and his co-writer David S. Goyer have taken the bubble gum out of those previous Batman movies and returned to the dark spirit of comic book creator Bob Kane's work. This prequel about the early days is slow moving in many respects, but it's narratively entrancing. And Christian Bale makes a credible Bruce Wayne, who undergoes rigorous training under the tutelage of mystical warrior Henri Ducard (Liam Neeson). (DT)

THE BEAT THAT MY HEART SKIPPED (Unrated, 107 minutes) This French drama, a remake of writer-director James Toback's 1978 "Fingers," about a man torn between thug life and his love of the piano, plays like a piece of mediocre music, gorgeously rendered. Romain Duris is excellent as Thomas Seyr, a punk who dreams of resurrecting the shot he once had at being a concert pianist like his mother, but which he abandoned 10 years ago to follow in his disreputable father's footsteps. He almost makes you care about which side of Thomas's personality will win out. (MO)

BEWITCHED (PG-13, 105 minutes) Nicole Kidman is engaging as a sweet-natured

HAVE FUN SAVING THE WORLD: Kurt Russell and Kelly Preston play the proud super-hero parents of a possibly power-free teen in the family film "Sky High."

but very real witch who finds herself playing a fake one in a TV re-do of the classic TV series "Bewitched." But Kidman's power smile is just one of very few flickers in a dismal movie. The other flickers come from Kidman's co-star, Will Ferrell, who turns on the physical comedy as much as he can. But he's working it too hard. (DT)

CATERINA IN THE BIG CITY (Unrated, 106 minutes) High-school movies about not fitting in are a dime a dozen, but this Italian offering from filmmaker Paolo Virzi gets something right that's not so easy to do. That's because it knows the real question is whether the title character (Alice Teghil), a girl from the sticks adjusting to life in Rome, will figure out that life isn't a label. "Who are you really?" Caterina keeps getting asked. Virzi's delightfully open-ended film would rephrase that as, "Who are you becoming?" (MO)

CHARLIE AND THE CHOCOLATE FACTORY (PG, 115 minutes) Johnny Depp's oddball eccentricity as Willy Wonka is an unsettling amalgam of Michael Jackson, Edward Scissorhands and Lisa Kudrow's Phoebe from "Friends." But there are other watchable delights: Wonka's factory is a wonderland of chocolate lakes and candy-grass banks. There are some hilarious routines performed by the diminutive Oompa Loompas.

And Freddie Highmore is a charmer as Charlie, the poor kid who wins a ticket to tour Wonka's factory. (D+)

CRASH (R, 100 minutes) The aftermath of Rodney King and 9/11 seems to sear the nostrils of every Los Angeleno in Paul Haggis' white-knuckle hatefest among characters of almost every ideological, cultural or religious stripe. If "Crash" only showed the dark side of humanity, it would barely be worth bothering. But the movie is also about the best in people. As soon as we think we have some character's number he or she turns around and does something quite astonishing. (D+)

DARK WATER (PG-13, 102 minutes) Director Walter Salles brings an almost unheard-of class and style to this pretty creepy (and pretty silly) remake of a Japanese thriller about a woman (Jennifer Connelly) and her young daughter (Ariel Gade) who have moved into an apartment plagued by plumbing problems. "Dark Water" also plays like a prosaic how-to (or rather how-not-to) film on dealing with incompetent maintenance men, shifty building supers and two-faced rental agents. Now that's scary. (M+)

THE DEVIL'S REJECTS (R, 101 minutes)

THINKING BIG: Taraji P. Henson and Terrence Howard in "Hustle & Flow," a street-level re-imagining of the hoary but effective old hang-on-to-your-dreams tale.

Meet the Firefly family, a southern fried version of Charles Manson's murderous clan that includes Mother Firefly (Leslie Easterbrook), Otis Firefly (Bill Moseley) and his sister Baby (Sheri Moon Zombie). They kill innocents with giddy abandon as they trade endless, graphic obscenities. Rob Zombie's follow-up to the gruesome "House of 1,000 Corpses" is a return to the cold-slab murderousness of "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre" and the anything-goes mayhem of midnight movies. For the right audience, this movie is the butt-kicking, dirt-talking, blood-spurting equivalent of beautiful music. Speaking of which, the soundtrack is a stomping kick of its own. (D+)

Now Playing

FANTASTIC FOUR (PG-13, 105 minutes) This movie version of the comic book series, which stars Jessica Alba (as Susan Storm), Michael Chiklis (the Thing) and others, feels like a rote adaptation. We go through the opening history and learn how four astronaut-scientists were caught in a wave of radioactivity and became the Fantastic Four team of superfreaks. But the movie lacks oomph. Despite some nice moments of computer-generated imagery, this "Four" ain't so "Fantastic." And the less said about the dialogue, the better. (DT)

HAPPY ENDINGS (R, 130 minutes) — Lisa Kudrow reunites with Don Roos, her director in "The Opposite of Sex," for another darkly comic look at the search for love and the meaning of family. Less jaundiced than "Sex," this film is rich in humor and Byzantine in plot, a fact that is somewhat mitigated by Roos' use of silent-movie-style titles that help viewers navigate the vast web of interconnectedness linking one character to another. "It's a sick, sick bond," says one character to another, referring to the love of a mother for her child. The same could be said of the connection between sister and brother, father and son, lovers and spouses in this twisted, but kind of sweet, take on human bondage. (MO)

HEIGHTS (R, 93 minutes) If there's anything good to be said about this film, it's Glenn Close's strutting, booming performance as Diana, a veteran actress who lords it over her stage and acting students, while she casts a controlling, lascivious eye over a promising new actor (Jesse Bradford). Unfortunately, the others, though played by estimable performers, including Elizabeth Banks, James Marsden and Matt Davis, feel like cardboard-cutout New Yorkers. The movie trades on a secondhand conceit about New York City as the storied citadel of countless artistic dreams. (DT)

HERBIE: FULLY LOADED (G, 101 minutes) A reconditioned lemon by any other name is still a lemon, and this sequel to the "Love Bug" movies of the 1960s and 1970s, about a magical VW Beetle that thinks it's a race car, is still a clunker under the hood. That's even despite the souped-up star power of Lindsay Lohan, who brings a modicum of pick-up, but not much mileage, to the story about a young woman who rescues a beat-up car from the junkyard. (MO)

HOWL'S MOVING CASTLE (PG, 110 minutes) Fans of Japanimation icon Hayao Miyazaki ("Spirited Away") are more likely to be wowed by his feature-length, "Yu-

BOY MEETS GIRL MEETS POOCH: John Cusack and Diane Lane work hard to redeem the romantic comedy "Must Love Dogs."

LOVE IN THE AGE OF TERRORISM: Simon Abkarian and Joan Allen star as doomed lovers in Sally Potter's experimental "Yes" — the script is written in verse.

Gi-Oh!"-flavored cartoon than are fans of British author Diana Wynne Jones' dark and oh-so-tweedy book, on which it is ostensibly based. While not without its visual charms, the movie bears no more relation to the novel than gummy bears do to grizzlies. (MO)

HUSTLE & FLOW (R, 114 minutes) In Craig Brewer's charming, gritty hip-hop fairy-tale, DJay (Terrence Howard) is a Memphis pimp heading nowhere slow, who dreams of making the music big time. He's always had a way with rhymes and he has an idea for a song. With the help of an old buddy and sound engineer (Anthony Anderson), and a scrawny white musician (DJ Qualls), DJay makes his new song, "Whup That Trick," take foot-stomping shape. He even gets his hookers, bottle-blond Nola (Taryn Manning) and Shug (Taraji P. Henson), involved and liberates them in the process. Writer-director Brewer doesn't go light on the obscenity, which is part and parcel of the language of the characters. But his story is so affecting, it threatens to make crossover audiences sing out: "You know, it's hard out here for a pimp." (DT)

THE ISLAND (PG-13, 127 minutes) Ewan McGregor and Scarlett Johansson, buffed and dressed in sparkling white, play harvested beings, or replicants — to borrow a term from "Blade Runner," which Michael Bay's movie has ransacked. McGregor is a cloned human called Lincoln Six Echo, and Johansson, named Jordan Two Delta, is also a copy of someone else. When they realize they are spare parts for their original molds, they make a run for it. Cue the helicopters and a paramilitary troubleshooter named Albert Laurent (Djimon Hounsou) who gives chase. As pretty, very human stars, McGregor and Johansson put the main sizzle into "The Island," since we've seen this plot-line, and this Brave New World, in better sci-fi films. Thanks to their performances, it's still fun to watch. (DT)

MARCH OF THE PENGUINS (G, 80 minutes) In this charmfest of a movie, narrator Morgan Freeman tells us about the habits and tremendous resilience of the emperor penguins, whose procreation quest takes them on an incredible journey on the frozen continent, where on a good day, the temperature is 58 degrees below zero. We're talking journeys of about 70 miles to the most frigid chunk of land on Earth. The film is full of wonderful moments and spectacles, including thousands of penguins huddled en masse, nursing their eggs. The wind moans and peppers them with snow. But they hold on to those eggs, which would crack and kill the baby inside if they touch the ground. (DT)

ME AND YOU AND EVERYONE WE KNOW (R, 9 minutes) Miranda July's brilliant, quirky film is far too complex and precious to render in one short paragraph. But it hums with compassion for its outlandish, lonely but always sweet characters. Everyone operates on eccentric impulse rather than formulaic predictability. (DT)

MR. & MRS. SMITH (PG-13, 112 minutes) Husband-and-wife hit men (Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie) are hired to kill each other as bullets and romantic sparks fly. Nevertheless, Pitt and Jolie's monumental charisma, coupled with director Doug Liman's stylishly jaundiced staging, makes this allegory of modern love and marriage a summer diversion that's fast-paced, fun and sexy. It's a grown-up popcorn movie. (MO)

MURDERBALL (R, 86 minutes) This isn't just the best smash-mouth rugby documentary featuring muscular dudes in wheelchairs ever made. It's also a powerful movie by any standard. Actually, the sport, played on basketball courts, is "quad rugby." Four players per team, most of whom suffered injuries to the spine or neck, roll around in "Road Warrior"-style chariots and throw a ball around. We watch likable Mark Zupan and his national teammates take on the world's best, including Canada — coached by arch rival Joe Soares, who was so miffed at being cut from the American team, the forty-something behemoth became the Canadian coach. Though the movie follows the American-Canadian rivalry in big clashes at the 2002 World Championship in Sweden and the 2004 Paralympics in Athens, "Murderball" isn't just about sports. It's an emotional visit with some determined young men (and one middle-aged guy in major denial) who refuse to accept limitations in every aspect of their lives. (DT)

MUST LOVE DOGS (PG-13, 88 minutes) This listless, cliché-ridden tale of two divorcees who meet through an online dating service stands as yet another example of how easy it is for filmmakers to fail at romantic comedy. The usually radiant Diane Lane loses some of her luster as Sarah Nolan, a divorcee who ventures into the world of online dating after her sister posts her profile on a product-placed Web site. Eventually Sarah must choose between a quirky boat builder (John Cusack) and the flirtatious father of one of her students (Dermot Mulroney), but many viewers will lose interest long before she makes that decision. Like most modern romantic comedies — perhaps Hollywood's most consistently mishandled genre — "Must Love Dogs" is so busy copying from other, better films that it forgets to present anything approximating real life. Contains sexual content. (JEN CHANEY)

MY SUMMER OF LOVE (R, 81 minutes) Two young women (Emily Blunt and Nathalie Press) meet by chance in the Yorkshire countryside and instantly understand they are meant for each other. Tamsin (Blunt) is a rich, horse-riding bon vivant without a care in the world. Mona (Press) is a working-class girl who lives over, and runs, a local pub. But things get ugly, and whether or not director Pawel Pawlikowski's dark, almost biblical finale brings things to a satisfying conclusion is a matter for debate. For all its melodramatic excesses, "My Summer" remains highly watchable for atmosphere and performances. (DT)

SAVING FACE (R, 97 minutes) Ambitious doctor Wilhelmina Pang (Michelle Krusiec) and dancer Vivian Shing (Lynn Chen) meet cute but awkward in writer-director Alice Wu's affecting tale of overcoming love's obstacles. Set in the Chinese immigrant community of Flushing, Queens, where Wil, as she's known, faces quiet parental disapproval for her lesbianism — even as her divorced mother (Joan Chen) is ostracized for getting pregnant by a mystery man — "Saving Face" isn't really about saving face at all. At heart, this romantic comedy is about showing face, about being who you really are. (MO)

SKY HIGH (PG, 99 minutes) "Sky High" is a slight but sure-footed, live-action comic fantasy from Disney. Director Mike Mitchell deftly blends two genres — the high school romance and the special-effects-laden superhero comic book adaptation — and manages to spoof yet salute both with a refreshing lack of pretension. Will Stronghold (Michael Angarano), son of Captain Stronghold (former Disney kid star Kurt Russell in blustering, eye-crinkling form) and Josie Jetstream (Kelly Preston), knows his parents expect him to follow in their world-saving path. Will arrives at Sky High, a school for superheroes' kids, without powers but that begins to change. The younger actors all avoid ham-acting, and their more seasoned colleagues have fun with the witty material. (JANE HORWITZ)

STAR WARS: EPISODE III — REVENGE OF THE SITH (PG-13, 140 minutes) In this final installment of the "Star Wars" mega-ology, we learn about the circumstances that led to the creation of Darth Vader. But this most potentially compelling episode of all is marred by the disappointingly ordinary Hayden Christiansen, whose evolution from Anakin Skywalker to the baddest heavy-breathing villain in sci-fi popular culture amounts to a sort of tizzy fit. (DT)

DOES THIS FLIGHT SUIT MAKE ME LOOK FAT? Jessica Biel, along with Josh Lucas and Jamie Foxx, fly the very unfriendly skies in the derivative actioner "Stealth."

STEALTH (PG-13, 117 minutes) This silly movie about Navy pilots who must fly alongside a new robotic drone is so clueless it makes its best actor, Oscar-winner Jamie Foxx, play dispensable sidekick to Josh Lucas and Jessica Biel. The filmmakers liberally rip off "2001: A Space Odyssey," along with such lesser fare as "Top Gun," "Behind Enemy Lines" and the 1980s talking-car TV show "Knight Rider." (MO)

WAR OF THE WORLDS (PG-13, 118) Starring Tom Cruise as a divorced father trying to protect his children (Dakota Fanning and Justin Chatwin) from annihilation by ruthless visitors from outer space, this "War of the Worlds" spends a considerable amount of time exploring the interior life of one man, but not at the expense of the film's profound, sustained thrills. It's a rip-roaring popcorn flick with a heart. (MO)

WEDDING CRASHERS (R, 119 minutes) Jeremy (Vince Vaughn) and John (Owen Wilson) are scoundrels who crash weddings so they can score with women, in this often-funny caper. But when they attend a big-time Washington wedding party for the daughter of Secretary of the Treasury William Cleary (Christopher Walken), things change. John falls for Claire (Rachel McAdams), one of the secretary's daughters. And Jeremy gets in over his head with another Cleary daughter, Gloria (Isla Fisher). Vaughn is definitely the best man in this wedding comedy. He's a cad and a half who can motor-mouth like a machine gun. (DT)

YES (R, 100 minutes) In Sally Potter's boldly original film, a passionate liaison between an Irish American married woman (Joan Allen) and a Lebanese surgeon (Simon Abkarian) who are both living in London is something more than an extramarital fling. Their relationship becomes the jagged interface between two clashing worlds, cultures, genders and personalities in the post-9/11 universe. Their running arguments have another significant element: They're recited in verse. In fact, everyone in the movie speaks in rhymed couplets, mostly in iambic pentameter. It's as if Shakespeare, Ingmar Bergman and Dr. Seuss had decided to collaborate on a movie. Thanks to the wit and inventiveness of Potter's language, a risky venture stays vital and alive. And the movie's very sensual, thanks to the note-perfect partnership between Allen and Abkarian, who throw themselves into the parts with persuasive conviction. (DT)

POT AND PANS: Elisabeth Perkins and Mary-Louis Parker find that dealing with grass is a struggle for the busy suburbanite.

Sleaze & Suburbia

A naughty new series and a look back at cinematic subversion

DEBUTS | The search for the next "Desperate Housewives" begins with "Weeds" (Sun., 11 p.m., Showtime), a new series debuting tonight before airing in its regular slot on Wednesday nights.

Mary-Louise Parker ("The West Wing," "Angels in America") stars as Nancy Botwin, a recently widowed mother of two boys who finds herself saddled with debt and subject to the pity and judgment of her neighbors in a snooty housing development. To make ends meet, she has begun dealing pot to her affluent neighbors and PTA members.

Nancy's drug suppliers are a black family on the bad side of town who seem inordinately obsessed with cornbread and the size of Nancy's rear. Her fellow dealer is the teenage son of her late husband's pal Doug (Kevin Nealon).

But Doug buys his drugs from Nancy. Nancy takes a rare stand and demands that her young acolyte stop selling to grade-school customers. When he doesn't relent, she turns to blackmail. Nancy's teenage son and his girlfriend (who is 15 going on 35) talk about sex often and openly with the lady of the house.

The late Divine starred in John Waters' midnight classic, "Pink Flamingos."

While all of this is supposed to be shocking, "Weeds" unfolds in a deliberate, matter-of-fact manner. In fact, "Weeds" presents Nancy's social interactions with a smug, studied cool that may leave viewers cold.

OVER ON ENCORE, it may be a good time to go ahead and have that 10th cup of coffee. You'll want to stay up late for Midnight Movies (Fri., midnight). Encore celebrates the brief heyday of alternative movies screened in the wee hours for hip young filmgoers one distributor described as "an audience of ironic insomniacs."

According to "Midnight," the phenomenon began almost by chance in 1970 when New York's Elgin Theater showed the surrealistic, violent Mexican western "El Topo" only at midnight.

An "El Topo" cult emerged almost entirely by word of mouth. More than one commentator referred to the theatrical experience as a kind of midnight mass for a countercultural audience.

"Midnight" explores the appeal of George Romero's politically charged gore fest "Night of the Living Dead"; John Waters' joyously filthy "Pink Flamingos"; Perry Henzel's "The Harder They Come," the film that introduced millions of college students to reggae culture; the horror spoof-musical "The Rocky Horror Picture Show"; and David Lynch's nightmarish "Eraserhead."

A product of the political and cultural tumult of their times, midnight movies petered out as old movie theaters gave way to multiplexes and videotapes offered audience the chance to watch films at home.

Although the midnight movie phenomenon vanished, much of the spirit of the genre has been absorbed by mainstream culture: Romero's zombies inspired Michael Jackson's "Thriller" video, David Lynch has gone on to make TV shows and a film for Disney and Waters' 1988 comedy "Hairspray" became a hit Broadway musical. 'Dateline' looks at a disproportion with a possible racial basis

DISPARITY | When "Dateline NBC" reporter Josh Mankiewicz asked television news division chiefs to talk about disproportionate coverage of attractive white females who go missing, only his boss agreed.

His report on the trend is scheduled to air on Friday's edition of "Dateline NBC."

Chandra Levy, Laci Peterson, JonBenet Ramsey, Elizabeth Smart and now Natalee Holloway became household names because of how extensively television news divisions covered their stories.

Each had other common traits: They were young, white, pretty and female. Some have questioned how they became stories when more than half of missing people are male and nearly three in 10 are black.

LaToya Figueroa's disappearance received scant news coverage.

Mankiewicz follows the case of Tamika Huston, a black woman from Spartanburg, S.C., who disappeared last year. Her aunt told NBC she tried hard without much success to get national news outlets to report on the story.

The case of Holloway, a blond Alabama teenager who disappeared in May while on a vacation in Aruba, has been tirelessly covered by cable news anchors, including Fox News Channel's Greta Van Susteren.

Van Susteren said her show has covered missing minorities, citing stories on LaToya Figueroa, a pregnant woman from Philadelphia who hadn't been seen since July 18.

Figueroa's case attracted attention after several Philadelphia-area bloggers waged a campaign urging networks to give the same attention to her as they did to Holloway.

ZE SPYCRAFT, SHE IS TRICKY: Espionage comes with many accents. French actress Elodie Bouchez is joining the cast of ABC's spy drama "Alias" to play international criminal Renee Rienne, who has been secretly working with Michael Vaughn.

Television

ON TV THIS WEEKEND

THE POWER OF JUSTICE

THE LAW THAT CHANGED AMERICA (Sat., 9 p.m., MSNBC) commemorates the 40th anniversary of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. Until the passage of this law, many black Americans in the South were denied the basic right to vote. And when "official" discrimination was challenged, violence and intimidation were used to keep people from voting.

IT'S ABOUT TIME

BATTLESTAR GALACTICA (Fri., 10 p.m., Sci Fi) Lee conspires to free the imprisoned president and resist martial law.

CULT CHOICE

A slacker is shocked into action when his London neighborhood is overrun by zombies in the deadpan 2004 satire SHAUN OF THE DEAD (Fri., 8:15 p.m., Cinemax).

DEATH IN THE AIR

As we approach the 60th anniversary of the end of World War II, the Discovery Channel devotes three hours to the war with Japan. HIROSHIMA: THE FIRST WEAPON OF MASS DESTRUCTION (Sat., 8 p.m., Discovery) includes historic footage of the massive secret operation to develop the first atomic weapon, as well as interviews with those present at its creation. HIROHITO: EMPEROR OF WAR (Sat., 10 p.m.) re-examines Japan's wartime leader in light of recently discovered diaries and memoirs.

WE'RE SURPRISED THE

PRESIDENT HASN'T BANNED THIS APE TO MAN (Sun., 9 p.m., History) glances back on the 150-year search for the origins of Man. "Ape" recalls the 1856 discovery of the skeleton that would be called Neanderthal Man, the seismic intellectual explosion that resulted from Darwin's work "The Origin of Species" and the long search for the "missing link."

PLEASE GET EATEN BY COYOTES

Apparently, the folks at E! did not receive news of the dismal ratings and cancellation of "Princes of Malibu," so they will continue to foist FILTHY RICH: CATTLE DRIVE (Sun., 9 p.m., E!) on a uninterested public. In this "reality" spectacle, the rich and spoiled offspring of celebrities take to the open range.

O, WHAT A ROGUE AND UNDERPAID ACTOR AM I!

The Canadian comedy series SLINGS & ARROWS (Sun., 8 p.m., Sundance) is set in a Shakespearean theater festival undergoing some serious problems. More than just a backstage soap opera, "Slings" looks at the politics of courting corporate sponsors; the unhinged behavior of high-strung divas; and the sad, sinking feelings of longtime professionals who realize that they've completely sold out their artistic integrity.

WHY NOT JUST BUY A TITLE?

Some people don't feel validated unless someone with a British accent tells them what to do. AMERICAN PRINCESS (Sun., 10 p.m., WE) is a competition among a bevy of American beauties to be accepted into British royal society. They undergo training by a battery of Henry Higgins types.

CAPTAIN PARADISE: Hef navigates a house full of women. Sorry, girls.

NOT NEXT DOOR TO US

The new series THE GIRLS NEXT DOOR (Sun., 10 p.m., E!) examines life at the Playboy mansion. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAM ELEVATOR/ESCALATOR REPAIRER

Here's your chance to get aboard America's Transit System and learn a valuable trade. The Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) is currently recruiting to fill openings in our Elevator/Escalator Repairer Apprenticeship Program. This apprenticeship is a four year program registered with the District of Columbia and consists of specialized formal training and hands-on experience. Successful completion of this apprenticeship leads to qualification as a Journeyperson in the elevator/escalator maintenance and repair trade.

To be considered for this program you must be at least 18 years of age with a H.S. Diploma or GED and possess a valid driver's license with a safe driving record. You also must meet one or more of the following minimum requirements:

1. Enrollment and completion (or substantial completion) of a post secondary technical training program appropriate for the elevator/escalator trade
2. 2 years' high school vocational training appropriate for the elevator/escalator trade
3. Employment history that demonstrate prolonged interest and progression in a comparable classification
4. Any combination of employment history and/or training that demonstrates the individual(s) commitment/interest to progress in the elevator/escalator trade.

Applicants meeting these qualifications must also successfully complete a series of written tests, the interview process, a pre-employment medical exam, and an employment and criminal background check.

The starting salary for these positions are $39,012.48 per year. Applications/resumes must include the position title or posting number 05-0603-KJ. ## Feat on the Street

Sports

In X Games, the fine art of skateboarding takes center stage

Yeah, it took some guts to jump over the Great Wall of China on a skateboard. You'll just never convince Donny Duhadway that pro skater Danny Way's leap last month was anything more than a stunt.

"It's not even skateboarding. It's like a daredevil thing," the 16-year-old street skater with braces and shoulder-length curly hair said during a break at an Orange County skate park. "That's not cool!"

The growing gulf between vert skaters' aerobatics and the more popular closer-to-the-ground technical finesse that Duhadway and others embrace will be on display at ESPN X Games 11.

Other sports at the games, which began Thursday in Los Angeles, are motocross, BMX freestyle and wakeboarding. In-line skating has been dropped and a surfing event was held Tuesday in Mexico.

Way, whose China jump drew national headlines, again will take to the massive mega ramp he created — and which debuted at last year's X Games. He's expected to dominate in the big air contest, which will be broadcast live Sunday on ABC. Street skaters are relegated to a tape-delayed broadcast on ESPN.

Although X Games manager Chris Stieppock calls street skaters the "rock stars" of the insular skate world, they're largely unknown outside it.

With studied cool and a wariness of the corporate world, they also trail vert skaters in major endorsements from non-skate companies, which can be a key source of income for pros.

FLYING: Forget skate parks. For Donny Duhadway, the street is where the action is.

It's the result of the gap between the crowd-pleasing drama of mid-air flips and the sometimes imperceptible nuances of street tricks.

"People that don't know anything about skateboarding don't really know what they're seeing" in street skating, said pro skater Rick McCrank.

The 29-year-old McCrank skated vert at a park where he grew up in Ottawa, but quit after two summers when the park shut down.

He's among the majority. About three-quarters of the nation's 10.5 million skateboarders prefer the streets to skate parks and ramps, according to data from marketing researchers American Sports Data Inc. and Board-Trac Inc.

Skaters and other pro-action sports stars walk a fine line with the business world. They rely heavily on sponsors for income, but can lose street cred if the product they're endorsing isn't accepted in the skate community.

Stieppock said it took some doing to convince street stars to even show for the biggest, most well-known action sports contest because of its corporate, made-for-TV image.

"They were not standing in line to get into the X Games," he said.

Among sponsors, Mountain Dew gets the OK because it latched on to action sports long ago. Cell phone companies are also fine.

But a food company deal — like Tony Hawk's with Bagel Bites — can be tricky. Pro-skater Buckley Lasek faced derision over his soup endorsement and recently parted ways with Campbell's after two years.

But street skating eventually may be forced to face up to its own popularity. Rodriguez is sponsored by Nike, which in March released the Zoom Air Paul Rodriguez, putting him among the elite athletes with signature shoes from that company.

Others include LeBron James, Serena Williams, Michael Vick and soccer star Ronaldo.

Mighty, Multi-Talented Mollusks

Food

Never dull, shellfish are getting dressed up for dinner tables

Mussels from Prince Edward Island, cockles from New Zealand, periwinkles from Cape Cod and clams from Vancouver — the shellfish on our dinner plates have flown in from all over for the occasion.

And we're glad they did.

You don't have to put on your clam diggers and head out to the sand when you want a steaming bowl of succulent Manilas or littlenecks these days.

Thanks to ongoing advances in shellfish aquaculture, high-quality live mollusks are more readily available than ever, year-round.

And the variety and quality is only getting better.

So lately, when you order mussels or clams in a great restaurant, you never know what to expect with them — except that it won't be dull.

It's not just clams with garlic and white wine or "moules frites" anymore; now mollusks might pick up an Andalusian accent or even Southeast Asian flavors.

Gregg Wangard of Ocean and Vine restaurant in Santa Monica, Calif., for example, serves a Thai-inspired dish of Prince Edward Island mussels cooked with coconut milk, lime juice and a little chipotle chile for heat.

Sweet, slick and succulent, these mussels make a versatile dish, wonderful either as an appetizer or a main course. Wangard serves them with a rustic grilled bruschetta for dipping into the sauce.

On a trip to Spain, Jessica Boncutter, chef at Hog Island Oyster Company in San Francisco, came up with the idea for her Manila clams with chorizo sausage.

This is a satisfying turf 'n' surf

ALIVE, ALIVE O: Aquaculture advances have made shellfish far more abundant.

stew of flavors and textures — toothsome clams, spicy sausage — that is a perfect light meal with crusty bread and a simple salad. Boncutter often adds cannellini beans and said, "I like to serve this dish tapas style on a small plate drizzled with olive oil."

When you cook a batch of mussels or even something more unusual — like cockles or periwinkles — at home, it's pure summer ease.

You can dress up mollusks, serving them in pretty dishes with a fine wine, or ladle them out of the pot at the backyard table to enjoy with beer and rustic bread.

Either way, they're fun to eat, a memorable part of a long summer's evening as you pry meat from shells, savor the briny, chewy bites and dip bread in the fragrant juices and broth.

And while they might never have been found together in the same tidewater flat or seaside cove, they get along beautifully together in the bowl. DONNA DEANE (LOS ANGELES TIMES)

Shopping

You Have to Spend Money to Save Money

D.C. will hold the first of TWO SALES TAX HOLIDAYS beginning Saturday, Aug. 6, Mayor Anthony A. Williams announced Wednesday. The first effort to lure more shoppers to District retailers runs through Aug. 14th and allows shoppers to waive the usual 5.75 percent sales tax when buying school items, clothes, accessories and shoes. To qualify, each item must cost $100 or less, but there's no limit to how many qualifying items are on the bill, said a statement issued at the mayor's news briefing. Layaways also qualify under certain circumstances. The second holiday will be Nov. 25-Dec. 4, in time for Christmas shopping. Such holidays cost the city about $600,000, but officials estimated that a noticeable increase in sales of taxable items may offset that, adding that the increased retail traffic is worth the expense. (AP)

Busting Out

It's tricky being busty in today's world. Fashion often dictates you hide under minimizing bras and dumpy blazers. Instead, look for styles that both flaunt and flatter. After all, people pay for what you've got; you'd better look like a million bucks. KRISTEN PAGE-KIRBY (EXPRESS)

→ CUTE AS A BUTTON

Tired of that button gap? REBECCA AND DREW MANUFACTURING sell their button-downs according to bra size, from 32A to 38D. ($165-$175, neimanmarcus.com)

Bra Busters: Undercover Mission Even if you've been measured, you could be wearing the wrong size bra. To prove it, three variously endowed women set out to rank some rack-measurers. Bra-savant Natalie Ortiz at TROUSSEAU pegged all three correctly (as evinced by the well-fitting bras she suggested) and gave a brief lesson in proper fit (your girls should fill but not overhang the cup, for one). NORDSTROM in Tyson's Corner nailed the 32A, but mushed a 32F into a 32D, resulting in "massive spillover." VICTORIA'S SECRET in Tyson's did dismally. Our 32A drowned in a 34B while our 36G was told to wear a 40D. K.P.K.

Marc Fisher

Whitehurst Razing

Post columnist MARC FISHER was online Thursday to discuss a plan to remove the Whitehurst Freeway and revitalize the riverfront | washingtonpost.com/liveonline

I don't get claims that removing the Whitehurst wouldn't result in more traffic in Georgetown. You're right — just removing the Whitehurst would create a nightmare on M Street. But if you reconnect K Street to Canal Road, you've created a good alternative for Maryland commuters and if you can figure out a way to connect the Key Bridge with K Street, the Virginians will get some relief, too.

You are not doing anybody a favor by advocating this, especially since you are not a regular user. Actually, I use the Whitehurst several times a week and always at the height of the morning rush, but I still think it should go. Creating a more enjoyable use of the riverfront is just a much higher purpose than shaving a few minutes off my commute or yours. (And the real point here is that it's not clear that the Whitehurst really does save any time, given those permanent backups at its two ends.)

When boating down the Potomac,

the sight of the Whitehurst Freeway is a blight. I would also like a more vibrant waterfront to enjoy when docking. Let's take it down! The whole idea is to recapture the river — for strolling pedestrians, boaters and even for folks driving along a new K Street boulevard.

Go ahead and take down the Whitehurst. But get them to finish the Southeast Freeway so that it dumps into 295 instead of Pennsylvania Ave. Ending it short was a disaster. Absolutely right. For decades, commuters and city residents alike have faced that frustration and for decades, nothing has happened.

You want to revitalize the waterfront? Here's an idea: Clean up the river! Who wants to eat, drink and socialize along a nasty waterfront? Don't you bet it would get cleaned up a lot faster if more people had easy access to it and started using it?

A Rational Grad's Approach

I'M SHOCKED THAT the writer of "Give Grads the Ol' Heave-Ho" (Letters, Aug. 4) doesn't think choosing to live at home for a while after graduation isn't a "rational decision." I graduated two years ago, have had a steady job since graduation and live at home. I pay rent and some of the utilities, buy my own food, clothing, etc., and chip in my time and money for house repairs. I could move out at any time, but why double my living expenses? I think it's rational to save the money I could be spending on an overpriced apartment.

—STEPHANIE GUY
Springfield, Va.

Walk a Mile in These Shoes

IT IS NOT EASY BEING a recent college grad. It took me a year to find a job, and I would not have been able to survive had it not been for my mother letting me stay home.

Jobs are not free-flowing like it's 1999. Mr. Richardson ("Give Grads the Ol' Heave-Ho"), and if you walked in a recent college grad's shoes, you'd understand how difficult it is, even when you search six months in advance of graduation only to find that the best thing you can get is an administrative job that can't even pay your $30,000 student loans, credit card, car and other bills. Just because one has graduated from college does not mean that a 50K job is around the corner.

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Personal relationships may take on an unusual flavor, in part because you’re currently unwilling to hold yourself fully accountable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a good day to sit back, relax and get your wits about you once again. You’ll enjoy a much-needed emotional second-wind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You may be called upon to address a widespread problem head-on. Feel free to serve judgment when you are given permission to do so.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You’ll enjoy a rare and long-awaited opportunity to get certain things off your chest today, at home or among friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Questions of taste and style are likely to arise today, but have the self-confidence to trust your instincts in such matters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Propriety is an issue that must be addressed today, but you can still express your individuality in no uncertain terms.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Phone calls and other messages may come fast and furiously. It is essential that you keep all new information in order and at hand.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You may be put in an awkward social position before the day is out, but you’ll know just how to handle it when you regain your composure.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Domestic issues arise today that demand an increased level of sensitivity on your part. Don’t make too many demands on others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Fears and doubts may be whirling about you, but none need light on your shoulder or cause you any lasting insecurity. Play on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Clandestine arrangements are not for you today. You’ll want to keep everything on the up-and-up. You can reduce personal risk throughout the day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone may be trying to limit your imaginative process. Insist that you be given free rein: you’re on the verge of something big.

GOOD ATTITUDES

Royalty Who's Happy To Be Royalty — Crazy!

PRINCESS BEATRICE has given her first media interview to mark her 17th birthday. Beatrice, the eldest daughter of Prince Andrew and Sarah Ferguson, appears on the front cover of the September Tatler magazine. "I wouldn't trade my life for anyone else's," she said. (AP)

TESTIMONY

The Ghost of Wives Past

The first wife of actor ROBERT BLAKE claims in a court deposition that the actor tried to have her killed after the couple separated. SONDRA KERR BLAKE gave her deposition in May in a Los Angeles attorney's office as part of a wrongful-death lawsuit brought against the actor in the shooting death of his second wife. He was acquitted in March of Bonnie Lee Bakley's slaying. (AP)

The spectral appearance of Blake's ex-wife gave everyone the shivers.

RAW POWER

Alpha Male Ashton

ASHTON KUTCHER and Lindsay Lohan top the list of power-wielding players in Young Hollywood, according to Teen People. The top 10 list was compiled by reader votes. The 27-year-old Kutcher was followed by Lohan on the strength of reports the 19-year-old actress is now pulling down over $7 million per movie. Readers picked Orlando Bloom for third place. (AP)

The Death of the Book As We Know It Is Upon Us

J.K. ROWLING, Bob Dylan and Stephen King are among the nominees for the first annual Quills Awards, a glitzy literary affair for which the general public will cast the ballots.

hosted by Brian Williams. (AP)

Organized by Reed Business Information and NBC, the awards will be announced at an Oct. 11 ceremony

COURTROOMS

Public Reenactments Will Be Staged Daily

A Long Island judge has closed the divorce trial of LINDSAY LOHAN's parents to the media and public. The trial in State Supreme Court in Nassau County began yesterday with Michael Lohan and Dina Lohan arriving with their attorneys. Lindsay was not in court yesterday, but she is expected to testify. Michael is suing for a cut of the millions of dollars earned by his famous daughter.

However, Dina wants full custody of her children, alimony and one million dollars in damages. Michael was wearing handcuffs in court because he is serving time for attempted assault and other charges. (AP)

DOING BETTER

Melissa Says She's Fully Recovered From Cancer

MELISSA ETHERIDGE is jumping back into recording and performing after spending much of the last year fighting breast cancer. The 44-year-old rocker has appearances booked for October, when her greatest hits collection, "The Road Less Traveled," is due for release. "I would say I'm 97 percent back now," Etheridge said. "It is very hard. ... Chemotherapy is so hard on a person. And I would say I'm fully recovered, yeah." In an interview that aired Wednesday on "Extra," Etheridge said she and actress Tammy Lynn Michaels, who held a commitment ceremony in September 2003, are considering having a baby. (AP)
